A New Role for CBP?

A recent published report announced that U.S. Customs & Border Protection assisted a U.S. exporter in convincing a foreign customs authority that it should follow the U.S. lead and the exporter's preferred classification for the goods being imported into the foreign country. It took ONLY seven months to achieve the favorable result for the U.S. exporter.

Ever wonder if the customs people in the Duchy of Grand Fenwick could help you convince U.S. Customs to follow its lead to get your desired result for your imports into the United States? Would that take ONLY seven months?
